Easy Access to State Benefits Laws Across 51 Jurisdictions — All in One Place

Access to primary law is a necessity for employee benefits professionals. However, having to find state law outside of a research system is both challenging and time-consuming.

Find the primary authority you are looking for when you need it with Thomson Reuters Checkpoint State Benefits Primary Law Library — a comprehensive collection of state employee benefits statutes, regulations and case law.

With this library, you'll be able to:

Use search templates to find statutes, regulations and case law. Each of our three easy-to-use search templates allows for an intuitive approach and searches up to 51 jurisdictions simultaneously by keyword, phrase or specific citation.

Access primary law for 51 jurisdictions consisting of all 50 states plus the District of Columbia. Search each jurisdiction individually or research a topic across several jurisdictions at a time.

Identify statutes, regulations or cases by topic, increasing searchability across states. Topics include state laws regulating private employer-provided health care benefits and time off plus state regulation of third-party administrators, pharmacy benefit managers, insurance navigators and more.
